

Architecture

These commissions are often done in collaboration with architects and form part of the fabric of the building. Designed for specific people and places the work is like jewellery for architecture.

